Child Drowns in Stock Tank.

A sad accident occurred about 6 o'clock on Saturday evening when Frederick Luke, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Collinge, was drowned in a stock tank at their farm northwest of town.

The child, who was not quite two years old, had accompanied his mother to the barn, where she was milking. He disappeared and a few minutes later was found lying in the stock tank, in which the water was only 14 inches in depth.

The doctor was called and arrived in a few minutes, but artificial respiration failed to save the boy's life.

Besides his father and mother Frederick is survived by two sisters, Aileen and Edith, and two brothers, Frank and Jimmy.

The funeral was held at the Knox United Church on Tuesday afternoon and interment took place at Didsbury cemetery.

The sympathy of the whole neighborhood goes to Mr. and Mrs. Collinge in their sad loss.

Knox United Church Notes

Municipalities Sign Hospital Contract

The Mountain View and Westerdale Municipalities, together with the town of Olds, have made arrangements with the Sisters of Hotel Dieu of New Brunswick to provide hospital facilities at Olds and the agreement has been signed.

The agreement provides that to the extent that the municipalities have authority they will grant the sisters the exclusive right and privilege to operate a hospital in Olds and the district tributary.

That these Municipalities agree to transfer to the sisters the present hospital buildings, equipment and furnishings; provide free a site of not less than 5 acres for the erection of a new hospital; contribute the sum of $900 00 for the drilling of a well; provide poles and wire to carry electricity to the new building.

The Municipalities also agree to reimburse the hospital for the care of all indigent patients.

On their part the sisters agree to build and equip a hospital of not less than 20 beds.

Fishing Notes.

Sunday being a fine day, along the streams and rivers in the West country there were likely more fishermen than fish—at least than fish caught. Most of the local Nimrods were out trying their luck. No large catches were reported, though a few nice fish were brought in.

The rivers and creeks were low and they say that fishing will be much better after the run-off from the mountains.

Clint Reiber says he got away from one fish at least. Fishing in the Fallen Timber for bull trout, an unexpected Loch Leven came along and nibbled away at the minnow until he got hooked. Clint tightened up a little and the fish jumped out of the water and away!

One party out fishing were apparently short on lunch, for immediately on getting to town one of the party ordered two pieces of pie with ice cream.

Farm and Home Week June 24th to 28th

Dates for the annual Farm and Home week to be held at the Olds School of Agriculture this summer have been set for June 24th to 28th, inclusive.

Farm and Home Week consists of a series of field days and lectures on agricultural subjects and lecture demonstrations for the ladies on various phases of Home Economics.

The facilities of the agricultural school are at the disposal of the visitors. The livestock is available for demonstrations and at the end of June the trees, shrubs, flowers and field crops provide additional material of interest.

The large, modern dormitory, where room and board may be had at reasonable rates, will be opened. This building is fully equipped with spacious lounges, dining room, gymnasium and lecture halls.

Farm and Home Week provides an opportunity for farmers to bring themselves up to date on the latest scientific information about agriculture and allows them to discuss their individual problems with the instructors.

There are no tuition fees and everyone is welcome.

Will Meet to Arrange for Fair

A meeting of the directors of the Agricultural Society has been called for Saturday, June 1st, at 3 p.m., to make arrangements for the Didsbury Fair, to be held in July.

The secretary has been notified the Provincial Government will make the usual grant and a grant has also been allotted from the Horned Cattle Trust account.

As there is a lot of detail work to be arranged, it is expected that all the directors will make an effort to be present.

Sell Savings Stamps To Aid War Effort

Canadians, it was learned Monday, will be invited to buy 25 cent savings stamps to help finance the Dominion's war effort.

These stamps, similar to the thrift stamps sold in schools in the last war, will be sold in post offices, banks and chain stores that have nationwide branches. The stamps will be associated with the sale of war savings certificates.

Finance Minister J. L. Ralston already has announced certificates as low as $5 and ranging upwards in multiples of $5 will go on sale shortly. They are calculated to bring the person of small means into the war financing effort and the war savings stamps will enable those with even smaller means to take part.

It was understood the public will be able to buy a $5 certificate for approximately $4 and when the certificate falls due the full $5 will be paid the holder.

Seeding Is Now Well Under Way

With good weather during the past week seeding has progressed rapidly and wheat seeding on most of the farms is nearing completion, and with continued favorable conditions most of the coarse grain should be in the ground by the end of next week.

With the abundant surface moisture, growth in the pastures has been good and some stands of alfalfa have made splendid growth.

Zella School Supports Red Cross

Zella School, which has the only Junior Red Cross branch in the district, held a very successful concert last Wednesday evening.

The children of the school presented the items they had prepared for the music festival and festival items were also sung by Bonnie Wyman and Earl Cummins of the Didsbury School. The prize-winning high school play, "The Marriage Proposal," was presented by Miss Elizabeth Austin, Don Mortimer and Bob Barrett.

Mr. E. Cogswell occupied the chair and highlights of the music festival were given by Dr. H. C. Liesemer.

There was a good attendance and the sum of $16.00 was raised for the Red Cross.

Stores Will Close Victoria Day

Victoria Day, May 24th, is a Dominion holiday and all places of business will be closed.

To Provide Seat for Hon. Solon E. Low

Opening the way for a seat in the legislature for Hon. Solon Low, provincial treasurer, George Woytkiw, "Social Credit" member elected for Vegreville in the provincial general election on March 21, has resigned, has been announced by the provincial government.

A by-election to fill the vacancy will be held on Thursday, June 20, with nomination day on Monday, June 10.

It is expected that steps will be taken at once by "Social Crediters" to nominate Mr. Low for the vacancy. The minister was defeated when he sought re-election in Warner riding in the general election.

Sugar Prices Have Been Increased

Wholesale price of standard white granulated sugar, whether made from cane or beet, will be increased from $4.80 to $5.15 per 100 pounds, Montreal basis, it was announced on Monday. The increase became effective throughout Canada at the opening of business on Tuesday.

S. R. Noble of Montreal, Dominion sugar controller, said that the increase had been approved by the Wartime Prices and Trade Board on his recommendation.

Forage Crop Field Day.

A Forage Crop Field Day is announced to be held at the Olds School of Agriculture on Wednesday, June 5th, when the seeding and culture of grasses and forage crops will be discussed.

Mr. James Murray, principal of the school, and Mr. Hugh McPhail, will speak on the subject.

The many demonstration plots at the school will also be examined.

Many local farmers are interested in growing forage crops and it will be to their interests to attend this field day. In fact, all farmers would receive much valuable information by their attendance.

Highlanders to go to Camp Shiloh

The Calgary Station was crowded on Tuesday night, when nearly 5,000 people gathered to see the advance guard of 75 men of the Calgary Highlanders leave for Camp Shiloh, near Brandon, Man.

Advance guard has gone to prepare the camp for the reception of the battalion, which will leave Calgary on Saturday.

Red Cross Notes

Six hundred and twenty-four articles have been sent to headquarters by the local branch of the Red Cross, which include both soldiers' comforts and surgical dressings. 237 pounds of wool was purchased by the branch and almost all of it has been knitted into comfort.

The articles comprise 175 pairs of socks, 68 sweaters, 10 pairs of gloves, 26 pairs of mitts, 15 pairs of wristlets, 8 helmets, 9 pairs pyjamas, 7 hotwater bag covers. The balance of the articles were made up of abdominal and triangular bandages.

This is a good record, but now that war has started in real earnest there will be a big call for surgical dressings. Material for sewing has been obtained and will be available at the branch depot on Saturday.

GROWN IN SUNNY SOUTHERN ONTARIO

Opportunities In Trees

Considered solely from the economic viewpoint it is satisfactory to note that the federal government has evidently decided that the annual summer expeditions of the forestry association's tree planting train are not to be sacrificed to the exigencies of war.

By the time this appears in print the train will already be perambulating through those portions of the prairie provinces which have found a place in this season's itinerary and from its cars crowds of prairie folk are learning, orally and visually, the immense value of a tree in the economic and aesthetic life of the country.

Contrary to what might have been expected, the past decade of drought and depression has given a marked impetus to the work of tree planting on the open prairies and the necessity of conservation of trees in the forested portions of the west has been brought home to thousands of western residents as a result of the continued mission of the forestry association's train.

During this ten year period of trial and tribulation, farmers and others have learned by bitter experience that the absence of trees has spelled soil erosion and that soil erosion plus drought has brought dust storms wreaking at least temporary destruction to large tracts of arable areas in the southern portions of the prairie provinces. In the park belted and treed areas of the northern parts of these provinces, people have been keenly aware of what has been happening in the southern districts and have undoubtedly become impressed with the necessity of conserving their protective device—the trees.

It is not surprising, therefore, to find that during the depression, interest in tree planting and conservation of forests has deepened materially and that this augmented interest has found expression in record attendances at the lectures brought to their doors by the tree planting train and by increased demands on the facilities of the Dominion forestry farms for trees and shrubs.

Wider Outlets Offered

A further stimulus to the growing interest in tree planting and arboreal conservation has been given during the past three or four years by the activities of the Prairie Farm Rehabilitation organization who are promoting the growth and cultivation of trees as one of the activities essential to the retention and use of all available moisture.

Instead of the war acting as a deterrent upon this important and highly necessary undertaking it should serve as a major factor in giving an additional impetus to programs of tree planting and forest conservation on the part of the individual, the community and the governments of the country. For it would appear that trees may be destined to play an even more important role in our economy than heretofore, as a result of the conflagration in Europe.

One of the immediate effects of the war in prospect is a very substantial increase in tourist traffic from the United States. It can be taken for granted that these prospective visitors will not only look for good roads and courtesy but they will search for attractive scenery and that means, in addition to fields of golden grain and neat farmsteads, the restful greenery of trees. If they do not find this greatest of assets to a holiday-maker, they may be expected to move on to some other section of the country which has something more tempting to offer them and which will reap the benefit of the money they have to spend.

It appears also as if the war may open a new vista of wealth to be derived from the forests of this country. Even before Norway had been invaded by Hitler's troops Roland D. Craig, chief economist of the Dominion forest service at Ottawa announced at the annual convention of the Canadian Society of Forestry Engineers that new markets will be opened to Canadian wood because the Baltic countries and eastern European timber producers have been practically shut off from world trade routes.

"The United Kingdom," said Mr. Craig, "will be dependent largely upon Canada for her entire wood requirements, particularly for military uses, and the United States, a heavy importer of wood pulp from the Baltic and from Europe will probably turn to Canada for a greatly increased supply of that forest product."

A Permanent Crop

So that in more than one direction the war is opening up opportunities to augment existing industries and to create new ones in which forest resources and trees may play an important role if advantage is taken of these opportunities, but to make the most of the situation it is necessary that more trees be planted on the open prairies in the south and in the north the forest resources must be carefully managed so that the industry may continue to be profitable for all time.

As Arthur A. Schmon, president of the Canadian Forestry Association, said at the convention already referred to: "Forest resources must be recognized by every Canadian household as a national pride and as a bulwark of our common well being. We want them accepted as the one permanent crop to be kept growing on nearly a third of our habitable area."

New Wireless School

Established Under Air Training Plan At University Of Manitoba

Establishment of a wireless school of the British commonwealth air training plan in buildings of the University of Manitoba at Winnipeg was announced by Hon. C. G. Power, acting minister of national defence.

Mr. Power expressed appreciation of the "patriotic attitude of the president of the university, Sidney E. Smith; the chairman of the board of governors, Mr. Justice Dymally, and other members of the board in placing such facilities at the disposal of the Royal Canadian Air Force for the duration of the war."

The school will be the second of four wireless schools, projected under the plan which provides for the training of pilots, air gunners and air observers for the British, Australia, New Zealand and Canadian air forces.

Another school now is operating in Montreal and the Winnipeg establishment will be along similar lines except that it will concentrate on the training of air crews while at Montreal signals officers, ground operators and wireless and electrical mechanics required under the plan will receive their training.

The Winnipeg school will provide accommodation for the training of more than 1,000 airmen as wireless operators.

The students' residence at the university which now accommodates 150 students and staff members and has a restaurant capable of serving 1,000 people will form the nucleus of the school. Other buildings will be used for instructional purposes and additional buildings for class rooms will be erected on adjacent property.

Will Survey Housing

Next Census Expected To Include General Living Conditions Quiz

A survey of housing in Canada will be made in connection with the 1941 census, according to plans already prepared by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics but subject to final approval by the Government.

The census takers will ask Canadians about the types of houses they live in, the type of sanitation and the type of heating system. They will inquire whether houses have bathrooms and refrigeration and what kind of fuel is used. Questions also are set down on the preliminary census form relating to the number of rooms in the house, the type of construction and the rent paid.

Only the other day the Ontario Association of Real Estate Boards convention in London approved a resolution asking the Federal Government to obtain information on property and housing conditions during the 1941 census taking.

FATHER: Stop that infernal racket! How do you expect me to work all day and come home and listen to that! My nerves can't stand it!

MR. CAFFEINE-NERVES: Bravo! That child needs to be curbed!

MOTHER: One of the club girls claims that too much tea and coffee can make people nervous and out of sorts. Maybe it isn't Junior at all. Let's try drinking only Postum for awhile and see!

MR. CAFFEINE-NERVES: To hear her you'd think you lived on tea and coffee!

30 DAYS LATER

FATHER: Whoever told you about Postum certainly deserves a medal. My trouble was caffeine-nerves all right! Postum instead of tea or coffee soon put an end to it!

MR. CAFFEINE-NERVES: Postum again! It chases me every time!

Many people can safely drink tea and coffee. Many others—and all children—should never drink them. If you are one of these, try Postum's 30-day test. Buy Postum and drink it instead of tea and coffee for one month. Then, if you do not feel better, return the container top to General Foods, Limited, Cobourg, Ontario, and we'll gladly refund full purchase price, plus postage. Postum is delicious, economical, easy to prepare, and contains no caffeine.

POSTUM

According To Old Legend

The origin of tea is credited to a legendary Buddhist named Bodhidharma, who in the midst of a nine-year penance without sleep started to drowse. To punish himself he plucked out his eyebrows and threw them on the ground. From these sprouted the tea plant, and by eating the leaves of it he managed to keep awake for the duration of the penance.

Burlap In Great Demand

Needed In Large Quantities For Sandbags During Wartime

The commodity whose price is perhaps most sensitive of all during wartime is not copper, nor steel, but ordinary burlap. Burlap is needed in enormous quantities for sandbags, and its price since last September has varied from six cents to 11 cents per yard. The British government has had to buy 500,000,000 yards, and a world shortage is increasing the use of cotton sacking and paper bags for commercial packaging.

It cannot be overlooked that the German people will fight a long time if the fight is kept in some other country.

The Economic Factor Is Most Powerful Weapon Used In Present Struggle

On all sides you hear this war referred to as the queerest one in all history, an unreal, almost phoney war, that is being fought by men apparently afraid to come to grips.

It is a queer sort of war because it is a new form of war, something as unlike the hand-to-hand slaughter of 1914-18 as that conflict was dissimilar to Napoleon's lightning conquests.

This war, at least at the present stage of it, is not so much a military war as an economic war with armies, air forces and navies playing secondary roles. It is a war in which bank balances are more important than bayonets, a war in which men's nerves are the primary targets, not their blood streams, a war which will be won by the side having the strongest financial and economic structure and which can withstand shocks and pressure the longest.

Armies are in the field, navies are in a life and death struggle in the North sea, air forces drop a few bombs on strategic bases—but they are simply backdrops for the real struggle on the economic and diplomatic fronts.

Take the economic front. The Allies have imposed a two-way sea blockade of German trade, not to starve the German people and lower the resistance of the German army, but to slow down the wheels of German industry and, more important than that, to throttle her accumulations of free currency.

Every day in the week, Germany and the Allies bid against each other for surpluses of food and raw materials in the Balkans, in Scandinavian countries, Holland, Belgium and Italy. Germany needs the goods to beat the blockade, the Allies cannot afford to let her have them so they buy them up, gasoline, wheat, iron ore and all sorts of food products.

Germany retaliates by all sorts of threats against neutral countries who trade with Britain and France. That's the war of nerves, a patented specialty of the Nazis whose diplomatic specialty has been intimidation against smaller weaker nations.

Take the diplomatic front. It ties in closely to the economic front because both sides compete with each other for the friendship and assistance of neutrals. And in the long run, money and a record for keeping promises will win.

This diplomatic front needs constant attention because of the enigmatic character of Russia's foreign policy. In some respects, it is the most important front of all because a false step by the Allies or failure to counter German pressure or propaganda might have disastrous effects.

The military side of this war is a modern version of the mediaeval siege. The Allied armies sit tight in France's mighty Maginot Line. The German army is entrenched in the Siegfried line. There have been sporadic raids, reconnaissance parties, a few limited offensives chiefly under the protection of heavy artillery fire—but the two mighty armies have yet to test each other.

This strategy of military inactivity is deliberate on the part of the Allies. The essence of Allied strategy is the time factor—time to build up to Germany's air strength, time to train and equip Britain's land army, time to weaken German resistance by the naval blockade, time to harness the industrial and financial resources of the dominions and time to outwit Germany on the vitally important diplomatic front.

It's a new theory of war, or rather an adaptation of an old theory, that you can lay siege to a nation of 80,000,000 people by land, sea and air, while you soften her up by financial, economic and diplomatic blows. It's a cold calculating policy, strangling or starving your enemy rather than finishing him off with cold steel.

Like many other features of this war conflict, the war in the air hasn't lived up to advance notices. There haven't been scores or hundreds of Nazi planes raining death and destruction on British and French cities in a desperate attempt to destroy the morale of the people, cripple their industries and force their governments to sue for peace or face revolution—the theory of the Blitzkrieg.

The war at sea is the one phase of this mighty conflict that has run true to form. The British navy has swept German commerce from the trade routes of the world held Germany's submarine warfare to exceptionally low losses, found counter weapons to the magnetic mines and conveyed thousands of merchant ships to and from the ports of this country.

But a price has been paid for this domination of the seas. The aircraft carrier Courageous, the battleship Royal Oak, the armed cruiser Rawalpindi and several small vessels—53,000 tons in all—have been lost.

Despite the U-boat, the mine and commerce raiders like the Deutschland, the British people are getting all the food they want, all the military supplies they can buy, all the raw materials their factories can use—thanks to the millions of sea miles being steamed by the navy.

Perhaps the most important duty of the navy these days is the imposition of the two-way blockade against Germany. If the British navy can help it, not a pound of war supplies reaches Germany, not a pound of exports can she ship to foreign markets to accumulate free currency. The Nazis always have claimed it was sea blockade that defeated Germany in 1918, not Allied military strength.

Whether that is true or not, the fact remains Germany to-day is in the grip of a blockade just as strong and just as effective as the last one. And this one was imposed at the start of the war, not three-quarters of the way through it, as in the First Great War.

An Important Discovery

Scientists Find Silver Is Most Effective In Killing Germs

Discovery of the secret of the ability of silver to kill germs was announced to the American Philosophical Society at Philadelphia. Silver is widely used to sterilize drinking water supplies.

The discovery proved that a single atom of silver can kill a living cell, despite the fact that the cell is as much bigger than the bit of silver as Mt. Everest is larger than a mouse. Germs usually are single-cell structures and die the same way as the yeast cells on which the lethal power of silver was shown.

The report was made by Dr. Alexander Goetz, associate professor of physics, California Institute of Technology, Pasadena. Scientists had believed that anywhere from 1,000,000 to 10,000,000 atoms of silver were needed to kill a germ.

Alexander Dumas, who wrote such tales as "The Count of Monte Cristo," wound up his career writing a book of recipes.

Asleep At The Wheel

Motorists Who Are Drowsy Constitute A Public Danger

Motorists who continue to drive, although aware they are apt to fall asleep at the wheel, can be found guilty of gross negligence, according to a recent ruling of the full bench of Massachusetts Supreme Judicial Court. In rendering its decision the court said:

Without undertaking to lay down a rule that falling asleep is always evidence of gross negligence, at least it may be said that the danger of driving while heavy with drowsiness is so extreme and so self-evident that one who, with knowledge that he is in that condition, persists in driving without making the necessary effort to arouse himself, can be grossly negligent.

The court sustained a verdict against a Bristol County motorist who fell asleep while driving, injuring his father, mother, sister and brother-in-law.—Public Safety.

Ensure Hot Meals

Ingenious Petrol Cooker Has Been Devised For Army Use

The day of the old tin "dixie" that often reached the front line with the stew well chilled and flavored by a blob or two of mud is gone so far as Canadian and other British troops are concerned.

The Dominion's First Division today is being equipped with ingenious petrol cookers and insulated food carriers that should ensure hot meals even for men in the most forward positions. The cooker can be used in a front-line trench or dug-out without smoke or flame-reflection giving the show away and the containers will keep food at tongue-burning temperature for six hours.

The cooker looks like a plumber's oversized blow-torch. It operates three hours on two gallons of gasoline and can cook 25 gallons of fluid food or prepare 50 pancakes or filets mignon—if any—at one time.

It blows a five-foot flame through metal grills. The grills have built-up sides so there is no reflection for enemy lookouts to spot. Large oblong metal containers or frying pans fit on top of each grill. And once the food is prepared the containers are placed in cork-insulated and airtight carrying boxes that will keep the grub hot during delivery to the men.

The petrol cooker and its thermos containers are a great advance over the dioxies that gave birth to a large number of new cuss words during the First Great War. Only the pack mule outrivaled the dixie in that respect.

The food had to be cooked well back of the line because of the reflection and smoke thrown off by the coke and wood stoves then in use. The dixie wasn't insulated and its top wasn't always anchored. If the soldier totting it up the line had to dive into a shell-hole for safety, more often than not the top flew off and mud flew in.

The fact the torch-cooker burns gasoline is another advantage. In this mechanized war petrol dumps are numerous. Coke or wood was not always at hand in the last show, and many an honest fence and barn door have ended their days in the belly of an army stove.

Gigantic War Machine

France A Nation At War And A Nation At Work

There are two faces of France: of a nation at war and of a nation at work, and in the sum of human endeavor and sacrifice there is no difference between them. On ne passe pas is as much the battle-cry of the workshop as it is of the Maginot Line, as challenging in the throb and roar of the factories as in the mighty fortresses of the east, and now, after six months of extraordinary difficulty, French industry, transformed into a gigantic war machine, is in full blast for victory. Much has still to be done before the peak is reached, for military needs were never so complex nor insistent, but every day the rhythm quickens, and already the output of arms surpasses the highest hopes. The Times (London).

Fooling Fish

Many Different Kinds Of Flies To Lure The Fish Are Now Available

More than a thousand different kinds of artificial flies are available to anglers, writes Vic Baker in the current issue of the C-I-L Oval, a magazine of industrial chemistry. Since fly fishing was first mentioned 450 years ago in the famous Boke of St. Albans, written by Wynkyn de Worde who followed Caxton, as printer in Westminster, says the article, human ingenuity has never let down in its efforts to devise new methods of fooling the fish. Among the more recent innovations contributing to the anglers' success are fishing leaders made from nylon, chemistry's new wonder material. They are practically invisible in water.

Sunstroke can occur in the shade.

Follow Many Occupations

Large Number Of Indians In Canada Are Prosperous Farmers

Talk about the "vanishing American" is out of date and the Indian affairs branch of the mines and resources department reveals that the British crown had 118,406 Indian subjects in Canada in 1939 compared with 112,510 in 1934.

Some of them are prosperous farmers. Others, living in more remote regions still depend mainly on hunting, fishing and trapping for their existence and by wild life conservation the government is seeking to assure them of a livelihood.

In southern Ontario, Quebec and parts of the maritime provinces the Indians are engaged largely in agriculture while the hunters roam the great hinterland comprising the northern areas from the north shore of the St. Lawrence river to the Mackenzie river valley and the Yukon.

In the great plains region, where the buffalo once provided the Indians with food and clothing, the aborigines have turned farmer, many of them with great success, while on the Pacific coast the Indians have earned themselves a high place in the fishing industry.

The Essential Difference

Allied war aims have been explained in many different wordings, but probably no one has put them more concisely than Rt. Hon. Anthony Eden. When he says that the Allies are fighting to "preserve the possibility of progress," he has said it all. The Allies want the world to go on to greater things. Hitler wants it to go backward into the dark ages. That is the essential difference.

More Homelike

The World of Wheat

By H. G. L. STRANGE

During these anxious times the farmers of Western Canada are asking what they can best do to help to win a victory for Canada and her Allies. Should, for instance, farmers increase or reduce production of this or that agricultural commodity?

No one, it seems to me, can give any definite advice about any particular agricultural product, because no one can tell how long the war will last, or even which countries will finally become involved. There are certain things, however, worth bearing in mind. One is that armies to fight a war, need vast quantities of foodstuffs, and no war has ever been lost because an army had too much food, but wars have at times been lost because soldiers did not have enough to eat.

Another thing to remember is that there are still 2,000 million people in the world who need food, and will need food every day, and there is not a single year in all recorded history when all human beings had all the daily bread they required.

On these two counts alone, then, it would seem that it would be both a patriotic duty and a humanitarian act, because no one can foresee the future, if Canadian farmers at least would maintain their present production of agricultural commodities.

Following factors have tended to raise prices: Spain is prepared to buy large quantities of wheat, corn and barley for prompt shipment -- Northern Saskatchewan and Manitoba in serious need of moisture -- Much agricultural land in Holland temporarily harmed by sea water flooding -- Much crop in Belgium damaged by manoeuvring armies.

Following factors have tended to lower prices: Germany invades Holland and Belgium and cuts off large markets for Canadian wheat -- Germany opens up the war on a large scale to try and force an early decision -- It is estimated that Australia will have a "carry over" of 60 million bushels when the next crop is ready -- A six per cent increase in spring wheat area for 1940 in Canada is indicated.

Westcott Notes.

The meeting of the Lutheran Ladies Aid was held on Wednesday afternoon last at the home of Mrs. H. Goetjen Sr. with a large attendance. Devotional service was conducted by Rev. A. F. Reiner, who also gave a reasonable talk on the references in the Bible to gardening, field husbandry and the beauties of nature in general. It was emphasized in particular that our Lord Jesus Christ was a keen and appreciative observer of nature, as many allusions in His teachings reveal. It was stated that we Christians should cultivate an appreciation of the grand out-of-doors as God's other revelation and thus obtain a fuller realization of His wisdom and goodness.

The election of officers resulted as follows: Mrs. O. Krebs, president; Mrs. H. Folkmann, vice-president; Mrs. M. Jacobsen, secretary, and Mrs. O. Folkmann, treasurer.

Other business included the planning of repair work at the parsonage and the forwarding of eggs to Concordia College, Edmonton. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Otto Folkmann.

Agricultural Crop Report No. 1

Edmonton, May 13th—

The sowing season of 1940 is one of the latest and wettest of recent years. Following a mild winter with little snow in most districts and a near break-up about March 15th, heavy falls of snow occurred throughout the rest of the month and well into April. Wet weather has continued to date, retarding spring work to such an extent that not more than 25 per cent of the wheat acreage of the province is sown at this time.

Precipitation since April 1 at six different points in the province is just about double normal precipitation figures, and in most of the province this year's precipitation is far above that for the same period in 1939.

All districts reported excellent surface moisture conditions, while reserves appear satisfactory at all points except along the north eastern border of the province.

Seeding of wheat was begun about May 1st in the south, but showery weather has interfered with operations to such an extent that not over 40 per cent of the seeding is completed in southern Alberta. In the west central part of the province, seeding has hardly begun, while in the eastern section wheat is from 10 to 30 per cent completed. In the more northerly districts, seeding varies from none to 30 per cent. In the Peace River district about 60 per cent of the seeding has been completed. Grams have been sown up to this date.

Fall rye and wheat crops of minor importance in certain districts in the south have wintered well and are making rapid progress.

Pastures are making good growth, but wet weather would hasten development. No damage of any kind has been reported.

On the whole, farmers are generally optimistic concerning crop prospects, despite the lateness of the spring.

Britons will continue to get their beer despite more severe food rationing made necessary by the Nazi conquest of Holland and Belgium, says Food Minister Lord Woolton.

Around Alberta . . .

Contracts for gravelling 55 miles of the Jasper highway west of Edmonton have just been awarded to two Edmonton firms, the public works department announced this week. The contracts are operative immediately, as it is desired to have the work completed before the opening of the Jasper-Banff road on July 1st.

Others contracts await award, it was stated. One is for base course gravelling between Wetaskiwin and Ponoka and one between Calgary and Okotoks. At the same time reconstruction work on the Jasper highway between Seba Beach and Carvell Corner will be rushed with three outfits working. This work was laid up last fall when frost conditions prevented completion of the project.

All of which spells the beginning of Alberta's—and Canada's greatest tourist year. Indications are that a great number of United States tourists will visit Canada this year on sympathetic grounds. They realize that United States dollars are valuable assets in Canadian hands. It remains for citizens this side of the border to make the stay of the visitors a memorable one. To this end, there is already launched a wide-spread courtesy movement among local trade bodies and business concerns who will come into direct contact with the tourists as they arrive.

The idea of the movement is to make the American tourist feel he is among neighbors. He will be treated with friendly courtesy, given full advantage of the dollar exchange in his purchases with U.S. currency, directed to various local points of interest, wished a happy vacation and reminded that next year he will be welcome once again.

Dominion and provincial officials also are stressing the value of vacation dollars kept in Canada. It is felt that, for the term of the war at least, Canadians ought to holiday at home and thus stem the outward flow of currency through channels which do not lead to the war chest. "Keep Canada's Cash in Canada—It's Patriotic to Holiday at Home," is the theme of the new movement.

Fifth column successes in Norway and Holland have been responsible for deep study of the potentialities of such a movement in Canada among ex-servicemen especially. In Edmonton the veterans have asked the immediate movement of ex-servicemen by resolution submitted to Ottawa. In this they follow the lead set by Vancouver veterans and the national body.

Alberta's teachers will be required to have some music credits from September next, it was intimated by Dr. G. Fred McNally, deputy minister of Education, this week. Mr. McNally was speaking at a dinner honoring adjudicators of the 33rd annual provincial music festival. A ruling to the effect named would become operative in September, he said.

One of Edmonton's armed forces Flying Officer Donald Foster, is reported missing by the air command. His parents recently heard that he was going to France on active service. A graduate of Edmonton and Northern Alberta Aero Club, Flying Officer Foster went overseas to join the R.A.F. nearly four years ago.

When Mary, Queen of Scots, was imprisoned in Tutbury Castle, Walsingham, in 1570, she furnished proof that beer was more than the drink of the commoner. She had her secretary enquire "at what place near Tutbury beer may be provided for Her Majesty's use," to which Sir Ralph Sadler, governor of the castle, replied: "Beer may be had at Burton, three miles off."

Happy Mountain Holidays at Banff

CANADA'S "Great Barrier"—the Rocky Mountains—will be anything but a barrier to the record number of alpine-minded pleasure seekers anticipated this summer by the Canadian Pacific Railway and its celebrated mountain resorts—Banff Springs Hotel and Chateau Lake Louise. Also in readiness for a large-scale tourist invasion are the company's chalets and lodges at Emerald Lake, Yoho Valley, Moraine Lake, Lake Wapta and Lake O'Hara.

Holiday-makers from all parts of Canada and the United States will soon be converging on these popular skyward playgrounds, where trail riding, hiking, fishing, boating, swimming, motoring and golfing can be enjoyed amid unrivalled scenic splendor.

Though located in the very heart of the mountains, the Banff Springs Hotel and Chateau Lake Louise provide all the luxurious comfort of metropolitan hotels. The chalets and lodges provide similar comforts in less formal settings.

Special events this summer will begin with the annual Stampede at nearby Calgary, July 8-13. The colorful Indian Days celebrations will take place from July 18-21, when hundreds of Stoney braves will descend on Banff for their annual pow-wow. Three prominent alpine societies have planned their annual outings as follows: Trail Riders of the Canadian Rockies, July 26-30; Sky Line Trail Hikers of the Canadian Rockies, Aug. 2-5; and the Alpine Club of Canada, July 14-20.

The Edward, Prince of Wales, Trophy, and other coveted trophies will be contended for during Banff Golf Week, Aug. 18-24, on the mile-high course at Banff Springs. The Banff School of Fine Arts will be in session from Aug. 1-31. Other attractions include the opening of the Big Bend section of the trans-Canada highway between Golden and Revelstoke, and the scenic highway between Banff and the Columbia Icefields.

Banff Springs Hotel, the Chateau Lake Louise and Emerald Lake Chalet will be open June 8-Sept. 8. The lodges are open as follows: Lake O'Hara, Lake Wapta, Yoho Valley, June 24-Sept. 6; Moraine Lake, June 8-Sept. 8.

German Refugee Says He Can Feel Really Free Now

"No one who has not lived under Hitler can understand the terror of the Nazi regime," said Walter Herbst, German, who arrived recently in Toronto, his new home.

He did not feel really free from Hitler until he arrived in Canada, and with reason. When he was an hour out of Amsterdam, flying to London, his plane turned back to miss a fierce Nazi-British air duel. With him were his 80-year-old father, a 70-year-old aunt, his wife, son and daughter. In Toronto he joined his brother, Frederick Herbst, who came with his wife and two daughters, Elizabeth and Ursula, a year ago.

The Herbsts were, until 1934, owners of a factory in Mannheim, employing 1,500. They left Germany in 1934 because they refused to believe that to be a German was to be a Nazi. Now they will work together in a small similar factory in Toronto, where they employ 10 Canadians and expect to employ many more in the future.

His brother feels he has been here long enough to express an opinion and says the thing that strikes him most is Canada's beauty.

"Your home life here is 100 times better than in Europe. There for instance, when people move they take the bathtub with them if they have one and all the fixtures."

Cannot Produce Proof

But Egyptian In Chicago Claims He Is 129 Years Old

In 1811 Napoleon was reaching the peak of his power in Europe and the first steamboat for the Ohio and Mississippi rivers was launched at Pittsburgh. That same year, Sayed Mehren was born at Cairo, Egypt, he told a woman census taker and said he could prove it, if he hadn't lost the record of his birth in Alexandria more than 100 years ago.

A slight stoop to his five-foot frame, squinting eyes, a gray fringe around his bald pate and a few deep-set wrinkles in otherwise clear olive skin, he looks like a man between 75 and 80.

"It's nothing unusual that I should live to be 129," he said. "I knew a man in Egypt who was 200 years old."

"In Egypt we live better. We prayed five times a day, which is restful and helps rebuild body tissues. I don't drink. I don't smoke. I don't eat pork."

Mehren said he could recall faintly having heard of Napoleon as a contemporary when he was a small boy studying French and Latin in a Catholic school at Cairo. He had recollections—also faint—of being an assistant copyist to the chief clerk of a British expedition to the Soudan, which built a dam across the Nile. He said he could remember clearly the British bombarding Alexandria in 1880.

I Read --- And Write --- For You

Perhaps you have been curious regarding the number of aliens at present in Britain. The number of those actually interned is small—between 700 and 800. There are 8,000 who are forbidden to move beyond a five-mile radius of their homes, and who are required to report at intervals to the police. Then there is another group, numbering over 53,000, who are free of all restrictions and who are treated as considerably as if they were of British stock.

Despite the circumstance of war, many, many thousands of Chinese peasant and workers, both children and adults, are going to schools located in the ten free provinces of China. The aim of the Chinese government is to eradicate illiteracy by 1946.

Ten years ago illiteracy in China was estimated to be as high as 90 per cent.

As against our alphabet of 26 letters the Chinese must learn 1,000 characters. The subjects of study are elementary arithmetic, music, hygiene, geography and "common sense."

The case of the man who is 40 or more years old is giving very many men of good will great anxiety. Another survey of 3,781 plants in Massachusetts showed that 230 plants had no employees over 45, and that in 767 plants fewer than 20 per cent. of the employees were over 45.

Providing For Dependents

Some $2,850,000 now is going each month into the homes of men on active service with the Canadian forces, according to the Department of National Defence. The number of beneficiaries has reached 55,000. These payments comprise assigned pay, allowances to wives, children, parents or other eligible dependents.

Yet there is manifest in these present times of industrial revival a growing appreciation of older artisans—men having special skills. Also, there is this: the past decade of large unemployment has sharply reduced the number of apprentices and skilled young workers, and so there is of necessity a growing reliance on older men.

Here's a bit of information for housewives: It has been shown conclusively that the best method to follow in cooking a roast of beef, to preserve full food value and to keep down expense, is to cook the roast long and slowly, in an open pan complete with rack, with no moisture added. The use of a stiletto thermometer is an aid to a good result.

This discovery was made after a number of experiments, quick roasting at a continuously high temperature, and with lower and higher temperatures, with covered and uncovered pans.

At crowded subway stations in metropolitan cities having immense populations there are men whose job is to "ease in" passengers into crowded coaches. They get from $30 to $35 a week for their pushful labour—and sometimes they get, as a sort of bonus a punch in the jaw or eye from resentful passengers. It takes a pretty stout man, and a man of good temper and much patience and finesse to perform this job, for he has to prevent some passengers from entry as well as push in those for whom there is seemingly no room.

Assuming Responsibility

What Of America If The British Fleet Loses Control Of The Seas

France and Britain are all that stand, to-day, between freedom and subjugation under the bloodstained hands of Hitler and of Stalin.

Let us not deny the truth. It is needless to turn back the pages of history in search for remote causes of the world tragedy of to-day. There is no nation in the world, not Britain nor France nor Scandinavia—no, nor the United States—which has not pages in history for which they feel shame.

But none of this matters. It is not of the crises nor the heroisms nor the misdeeds of generations now dead we must think, to-day.

To those who try to argue in specious futility that the outcome of the war in Europe is of no concern to America, let the question be addressed:

What of the world, and this country, if Nazi Germany is victorious?

What of America if the British fleet is wiped from the seas and a German navy takes control of the Atlantic?—Atlanta (Ga.) Constitution.

Just One Choice

Clever Way Nazis Have To Keep Customers Satisfied

The Nazis have a way to make their customers contented, Swen Young, a delegate to the Independent Master Bakers convention told the meeting in Toronto. He said customers buying bread or other commodities must sign a rejection slip which states "refused to accept first class German goods" if they wish to complain and return any article. So, they just have to be contented.

Gardening

Secret Of Transplanting

Secret of successful transplanting is plenty of water. Of next importance will be shade and stimulant. Moving a plant is something like an operation for a human being, and the larger the specimen the more necessary the attention. With shrubbery and trees often main roots are cut and the shock is severe. Half a pail of water after setting out is not too much for such big things, and the watering should be repeated two or three times a week, if a quick start is wanted.

With ordinary annuals and perennials liberal watering is also advisable and shelter from hot sun for the first few days. Some pickup in the way of quickly available commercial fertilizer, carefully applied, will help at this time, merely a pinch for small things like tomato plants or asters, and perhaps up to a couple of handfuls for shrubs and trees.

Informal Layouts

In the average case planting irregularly in clumps will produce the most pleasing garden effects. Such planting, too, will add an air of spaciousness, giving even tiny back-yard gardens the appearance of much larger plots.

Where possible there should be a lawn in the foreground, with an irregularly shaped bed of flowers around the edges and possibly groups of shrubs at the corners. Screening of harsh straight lines about the house and drives with clumps of flowers and shrubs and an occasional trailing vine over verandahs or garages will bring the whole thing together.

Extending Season

Canada's gardening season can be lengthened considerably by using started plants and spreading sowing operations over several weeks. This is especially desirable with vegetables. One third of the seed can be sown at the earliest possible date outside, one third at the normal time and one third two to three weeks later than usual. A still longer season can be secured by also using an early, medium and late variety of all vegetables wanted.

One Definite Gain

Italy Profits By German Invasion Of Neutral Countries

Passengers on Italian ships plying between Genoa and New York consist chiefly of refugees. The mounting stream of these travellers from Italy is continually fed by her ally's invasion of neutral countries. Passage rates have been doubled and in most cases are paid in United States currency. Thus the Berlin-Rome Axis seems to be working out profitably for the southern partner. Hitler keeps Italian ships in business and provides foreign currency for Mussolini.—New York Times. 2358

SWAT THE FLY

This is the time for each householder in Canada to lay plans for his own annual private war, in which the battle-cry is "Swat that Fly", the Health League of Canada advised to-day.

One reason for the success with which the pestiferous insect resists attacks upon him is his habit of taking up the fight each year without warning and before he is expected.

A good way to wreck his plans at this time is to spring clean the yard, and every other outlying portion of the home, as vigorously and thoroughly as the housewife cleans the interior. Garbage cans might be given a wash with strong disinfectant, with advantage to the household involved. No rubbish or garbage should be allowed to collect, and where manure is used for preparing the garden it should be dug under as soon as possible. Don't forget that the female fly lays her eggs in rubbish and refuse; that the grubs hatch out in a few days and shortly afterward burrow into the earth to undergo their metamorphosis. Don't give them any encouragement or help in doing so.

Many people still look on the fly as only a mild nuisance, chiefly annoying by his habits of buzzing and tickling. Those little things are nothing! If one had microscopical eyes, capable of seeing the disease germs which this enemy of mankind picks up, carries around and distributes during a single day, he would take a different view of the enemy.

It may be permitted to mention only one of the fly's obnoxious manners: When you see him trampling around in the sugar bowl, he is not just nibbling the grains of sugar. He can't nibble; so he regurgitates a drop of fluid from his tummy to melt the sugar, then he can suck it up. Not nice, is it?

The sooner you put up fly screens and get ready with the swatter, the better will be your chance of having a home free from flies.

Like To Be Feared

Nazi Leaders Do Not Want Friendship Of The People

In this part of the world, one realizes that "German propaganda is wholly based on fear. The Nazis do not care whether people love or admire them, or whether they are called gangsters. They believe fear more potent than idealism. They don't mind being hated, provided hatred is accompanied by terror and frustration. There is a kind of hypnotic power about the terror. Just before we left Italy the Nazis showed a film, "Baptism of Fire," to a select group of invited guests, mostly Italian journalists. It was a picture of the conquest of Poland shown in the crudest and most ruthless detail. The guests who were there reported that there was almost no applause. Onlookers sat pale and quiet. But the film created precisely the effect intended. It conveyed the idea, "This is what happens to any who oppose us."—Dorothy Thompson.

Scraps from the table should not be the sole diet of pet animals, a nutritionist warns, because they may lack some needed food elements.

Fingerprints for identifying criminals can now be sent by wire from one police department to another.

Through the Window

"You mustn't go, you'll be killed!" she gasped, and he laughed at her, not ill pleased, for the risk was virtually nil.

"I've got a pretty high regard for me," he said, and in another instant he had swung clear and gripped the lower sash of the second window and had pulled himself into the room.

He could see nothing except the rim outlines of three trunks stacked one on top of the other. He switched on the light and turned to survey the confusion. Old boxes and trunks which, he guessed, had been piled in some order, were dragged into the centre of the room to allow the free operation of the vanished burglar. Recessed into the wall, thus cleared, was a safe, the door of which was open. On the floor beneath was a rough circle of metal burned from the door—it was still hot when he touched it—by the small hydrogen blow-lamp that the burglar had left behind him.

He unlocked the door of the room and admitted Elk and the girl.

Released on Wednesday

"That's good work," said Elk, whose detached admiration for the genius of law-breakers was at least sincere. "Safe's empty! Not so much as a cigarette card left behind. Good work! Toby Haggitt or Lew Yakobi—they're the only two men in London that could have done it."

The girl was gazing wide-eyed at the "good work". She was very pale, Jim noticed, and misread the cause. "What was in the safe?" he asked.

She shook her head.

"I don't know. I didn't even know that there was a safe in the room. He will be terrible about this!"

Carlton knew the "he" was the absent Ingle.

"He won't know for some time, anyway—" he began, but she broke in upon his reassurance.

LOOK OUT FOR YOUR LIVER

It may be the cause of your troubles. Buck it up the right way, with Fruit-a-tives. Feel grand.

Your liver is the largest organ in your body and most important to your health. It pours out bile to digest food, gets rid of waste, stores energy, allows the proper nourishment to reach your blood. When your liver gets out of order food decomposes in your intestines. You become constipated, stomach and kidneys can't work properly. You feel "rotten"—headachy, backachy, dizzy, dragged out all the time.

Relieve yourself of these miseries, as thousands have—with Fruit-a-tives, for 35 years Canada's largest selling liver remedy. Fruit-a-tives stimulate your liver, bring prompt relief—make you feel like a new person. Get Fruit-a-tives at your druggist's today, 25c, 50c.

FRUIT-A-TIVES Liver Tablets

"Next week," she said; "he is being released on Wednesday."

Elk scratched his chin thoughtfully.

"Somebody knew that," he said; "he hadn't a partner, either."

Arthur Ingle was indeed a solitary worker. His frauds had been unsuspected even by such friends as he had in his acting days—for they had covered a period of twelve years before his arrest and conviction. To the members of his company he was known as a bad paymaster and an unscrupulous manager; none imagined that this clever player of character parts was "Lobber & Syne, Manufacturing Jewellers, of Clerkenwell", and other aliases that produced him such golden harvests.

"It was no fault of yours," said Jim Carlton, and she submitted to a gentle pat on the shoulder. "There's no sense in worrying about it."

Elk was examining the lamp under the electric light.

"Bet it's Toby," he said, and walked to the window. "That's his graft. He'd make a cat burglar look like a wool-eatin' kitten! Parapets are like the Great West Road to Toby—he'd stop to manure his nails on three inches of rotten sandstone."

The identity of the burglar worried Jim less than it did the girl. He had the brain of a lightning calculator. A hundred aspects of the crime, a hundred possibilities and explanations flickered through his mind, and none completely satisfied him.

An Uncertain Power

Unless . . .

The Splendid Harlow was on the way to becoming an obsession. There was no immense sum of money to be made from discovering the secrets of a convicted swindler. That there was money in the safe he did not for one moment believe. Ingle was not the type of criminal which hides its wealth in safes. He credited him with a dozen banking accounts in fictitious names, and each holding money on deposit.

They went back into the paneled dining room. The apartment interested Jim, for here was every evidence of luxury and refinement. The flat must have cost thousands of pounds to furnish. And then he remembered that Arthur Ingle had only been convicted on three charges. Evidence in a number of others, which must have produced enormous profits, was either missing or of too shaky a character to produce. This apartment represented coups more successful than those for which Arthur Ingle had been convicted.

"Do you know your uncle very well?"

She shook her head.

"I knew him better many years ago," she said, "when he was an actor; before he—well, before he got rich! I am his only living relation." Somebody had knocked at the outer door.

"It may be the charwoman," she said, and went out along the passage and pulled open the door.

A man was standing on the mat outside, tall, commanding, magnificent in his well-cut evening kit and his graceful, if old-fashioned, Inverness cape. His snowy linen blazed and twinkled with diamonds; the buttons on his white waistcoat were aglitter.

It was part and parcel with the primitive in the man, so that she saw nothing vulgar in the display. But something within her shrank under his pale gaze. She had a strange and inexplicable sensation of being in the presence of a power beyond earthly control. She was crushed by the sense of his immense superiority. So she might have felt had she found herself confronted by a tiger.

"My name is Harlow, we met on Dartmoor," he said, and showed a line of even teeth in a smile. "May I come in?"

She could not speak in her astonishment, but somebody answered for her.

"Come in, Harlow," drawled Jim Carlton's voice. "I'd love to have your first impression of Dartmoor; is it really as snappy as people think?"

The Great Harlow

Mr. Harlow's attitude toward this impertinent man struck the girl as remarkable. It was mild, almost benevolent; he seemed to regard James Carlton as a good joke. And he was the great Harlow! She had learned that at Princetown.

You could not work in the City without hearing of Harlow, his coups and successes. Important bankers spoke of him with bated breath. His money was too liquid for safety; it flowed here and there in floods that were more often than not destructive. Sometimes it would disappear into subterranean caverns, only to gush forth in greater and more devastating volume to cut new channels through old cultivations and presently to recede, leaving havoc and ruin behind.

And, of course, she had heard of the police station. When Mr. Harlow interested himself in the public weal he did so thoroughly and unconventionally. His letters to the press on the subject of penology were the best of their kind that have appeared in print. He pestered ministers and commissioners with his plans for a model police station, and when his enthusiasm was rebuffed he did what no philanthropist, however public-minded, has ever done before. He bought a freehold plot in Every street (which is not a stone's throw from Park lane), built his model police headquarters at the cost of £100,000, and presented the building to the police commissioners. It was a model police office in every respect. The men's quarters above the station were the finest of their kind in the world. Even the cells had the quality of comfort, though they contained the regulation plank bed. This gift was a nine days' wonder. Topical revues had their jokes about it; the cartoonists hung their jibes at the Government upon the happening.

The city had ceased to think of him as eccentric, they called him "sharp", and contrasted him unfavorably with his father. They were a little afraid of him. His money was too fluid for stability.

He nodded smilingly to Jim Carlton fixed the unhappy Elk with a glance, and then:

"I did not know that you and my friend Carlton were acquainted." And then, in a changed tone: "I hope I am not de trop?"

His voice, his attitude said as plainly as words could express: "I presume this a police visitation due to the notorious character of your uncle?"

Spare-Time Work

The girl thought this. Jim knew what was coming before his tone altered.

"There has been a burglary here and Miss Rivers called us in," he said.

Harlow murmured his regrets and sympathy.

"I congratulate you upon having secured the shrewdest officer in the police force." He addressed the girl blandly. "And I congratulate the police force," and looked at Jim—"upon detaching you from the Foreign Office—you were wasted there, Mr. Carlton, if I may be so impertinent as to express an opinion."

"I am still in the Foreign Office," said Jim. "This is spare-time work. Even policemen are entitled to their amusements. And how did you like Dartmoor?"

The Splendid Harlow smiled sadly. "Very impressive, very tragic," he said. "I am referring of course to Princetown, where I spent a couple of nights."

Aileen was waiting to hear the real reason for the call; even through her distress and foreboding she was curious to learn what whim had brought this super-magnate to the home of a convict.

He looked slowly from her to the men, and again Jim interpreted his wishes; with a glance at Elk they walked back into the lumber room.

"It occurred to me," said Mr. Harlow, "that I might be in a position to afford you some little help. My name may not be wholly unknown to you; I am Mr. Stratford Harlow."

She nodded.

"I knew that," she said.

Cannot Stand Publicity

All Dictatorships Thrive In Shadow But Die In The Light

All dictatorships are born in the dark. They survive for a time in the shadows. They invariably die in the light. The one thing tyranny cannot stand is publicity. It must gag the press, stop free expression, silence the pulpit, censor the radio, control the movies, propagandize the public with half-truths—which is the shadiest way of lying there is. The real bulwark of democracy is not the ballot box but the honest newspaper.—Michigan Christian Advocate.

YOUR WEDDING CAN BE BEAUTIFUL AND CORRECT

Be Posted on Dress, Etiquette

The loveliest of weddings for you and your betrothed! But, first, so many details to be settled—of attire, etiquette.

Your dress should suit the style of your wedding, formal or informal, as well as the hour.

At a traditional formal day-time affair, the bride sweeps down the aisle in trailing white gown and veil. The groom wears a cutaway and striped trousers. After six, evening attire! The bride's dress is the same as for a formal afternoon wedding, but the groom dons white tie, tails.

Or, fashionable these days to be married informally at noon the bride in a smart suit and hat, the groom in business clothes.

Informally after six, you wear a dinner dress and tiny hat or a simple white gown and short veil. The groom wears dinner clothes.

How many attendants? As many as you like at a formal wedding. One or two for the bride at an informal affair.

Where should the bridesmaids stand during the ceremony? Who is in the receiving line at the reception? These and all your wedding questions are answered in our 32-page booklet. Gives etiquette for the ceremony and reception, correct attire for bridal party, guests. Tells how to budget expenses; who pays for what.

Send 15c in coins for your copy of "Planning and Budgeting Your Wedding" to Home Service Dept., Winnipeg Newspaper Union, 175 McDermot Ave. E., Winnipeg, Man.

Also available at 15c each are the following:

- 129—"The Meaning of Dreams".
- 184—"Develop Correct Tennis Form".
- 183—"Self-Instruction in Short-hand".
- 118—"Good Table Manners".
- 171—"How to Plant and Care for Your Garden".

What Do You Drink?

Of course, we mean as a meal time beverage for the family.

Your grocer has many customers who seldom or never drink tea and coffee—for these he has the famous Postum, which is most delicious and is the beverage for people who suffer from nervousness, indigestion, sleeplessness, caused by caffeine.

In their new advertising Postum illustrates this point with a trade character called Mr. Caffeine-Nerves.

Especially for mothers who won't let their children take strong brews is Postum. Valuable because the youngsters get tired of milk and such like but they get a well balanced and healthful hot drink when using Postum—especially when used with evaporated milk and brown sugar for sweetening. At least that's the way I like it and I can take it at any time without harm.

The wise grocer will see that his stock of Postum is kept up and that he mentions it to all his customers.

Going East This Fall?

Then You Will Want To Visit The Canadian National Exhibition

With our money spent in the U.S.A. being discounted from 15 to 30 per cent, surely your slogan should be "We'll see Canada First".

And if you do decide to come East why not make it about the time the Canadian National Exhibition is on at Toronto—it's the world's largest permanent exhibition and despite the fact that the buildings have been used as soldiers' barracks this winter the authorities start packing away all this equipment about the 24th of May when the military go to summer camps.

Naturally you'll have a different display to look at than in past years.

Some countries will be "out of the picture" but it is believed that South America and the Central American Republics will come in and show something entirely new in their displays in an endeavour to increase trade with Canadians.

If rumours are true, you'll not have any more opportunities after this year, to see the Dionne Quintuplets—the five perfect children of Calendar, Ontario. Of course, you'll have to go up there for the visit, but buses and trains run frequently and there's no admission charge.

Money is more valuable to Canadians this year, when spent in Canada, than for a long time past.

See Canada first, buy Canadian or British—and make every dollar of your money help your own people and your own country!
